Gene mapping describes the methods used to identify the locus of a gene and the distances between genes.. The essence of all genome mapping is to place a collection of molecular markers onto their respective positions on the genome. Molecular markers come in all forms. Genes can be viewed as one special type of genetic markers in the construction of genome maps, and mapped the same way as any ...

The genetic code is the set of rules used by living cells to translate information encoded within genetic material (DNA or mRNA sequences) into proteins. Translation is accomplished by the ribosome, which links amino acids in an order specified by messenger RNA (mRNA), using transfer RNA (tRNA) molecules to carry amino acids and to read the mRNA three nucleotides at a time.

Genetic markers. Genetic markers are important developments in the field of plant breeding [3 Kebriyaae D, Kordrostami M, Rezadoost MH, et al. QTL analysis of agronomic traits in rice using SSR and AFLP markers. Not Sci Biol. 2012;4(2): 116 â€“ 123. [Google Scholar]]. The genetic marker is a gene or DNA sequence with a known chromosome location controlling a particular gene or trait.

Cytochromes P450 (CYP) are a major source of variability in drug pharmacokinetics and response. Of 57 putatively functional human CYPs only about a dozen enzymes, belonging to the CYP1, 2, and 3 families, are responsible for the biotransformation of most foreign substances including 70–80% of all drugs in clinical use.
